

LETTERS 192

Yulia Espín had the humor to send me the story of a grandmother who makes her salad on the computer of one of her grandchildren, which gave me the idea of discovering that maybe I could make better Guacamole (a kind of avocado paste with chili) if I made it on my beloved PC (Personal Computer). To which she answered me with a video of Carl Sagan in which is the first photograph where our Earth appears seen by a Voyager Probe, and it looks like a tiny point of light in the middle of an immensity of dark abysses. That made me think seriously and I answered him by telling him that this point of light discovered by the Voyager is our Con-Science that is within ourselves and the darkness that surrounds it is our ignorance about ourselves.

True, we have already discovered that Matter is symbolized by our Earth. Now it remains to discover what Energy is. I only explain it to myself as Light, that is, Mind. Although it is, according to Albert Einstein's famous formula, the result of the square of the speed of light multiplied by matter. ($e=mc^2$).

Mind is Light, even though it is subject to Reality where everything is appreciated by contrast and remains maya, illusion, according to the Indians. Now, if we follow the scale, it turns out that what we call Spirit is what IS, that is, BEING, precisely the synthesis of Energy, Mind and Spirit.

And beyond the BEING, what?

The Sacred, the Essence of ALL in all, the Con-Science.

And beyond the Essence of everything in EVERYTHING, what? There is no answer. Let each one draw his own conclusions.

Carl Sagan goes on to explain that all the greatness of Human Beings, their miseries and their despair, are found in that very small point of Light, the only place we know so far to be inhabited, even though new discoveries have added that our planet is in a galaxy, which is a kind of cosmic dust, adding that Astronomy and its distances of millions of Light-Years are a good answer to our dreams of Power.

And for the Initiates in the Sacred and in the Real, what? Let each one apply his Words of Passage and explain to himself where he is. So easy, like this?

So easy and so difficult, and until we go from easy to difficult, we will know nothing. So let's do the math, thoroughly. Does this mean that we will always be in difficulty? Yes, that's how easy it is, so why worry about the difficult? It would be better to stay in the easy. Well, let us stay in the easy and live thoroughly, with all the greatness and miseries, because we must not forget that everything is a mirage where the Truth reveals itself as Reality, as relativity. That is what the Great Universal Fraternity is designed for, with its unity in diversity. And where are we? If someone wants to know, he will have to continue struggling to acquire degrees of comprehension.

That's all, and it is not possible otherwise, is the Life posed to understand what it means. Which increases its instability and its anxiety.

At this point I was thinking when Rosita came to me with open arms. What day is it today? - I asked myself: the day of Love and Friendship - I was immediately reminded of the image of two old men in a park in Stockholm, helping each other to walk, holding hands and enjoying themselves like two lovers contemplating the trills of two little birds. A true work of art of life.

I gave her a hug. It seems incredible that it takes more than fifty years of sharing life to realize that one is a Man and lives next to a Woman. Don't think that I am a supporter of homosexuality or lesbianism, more of the same interrupts the circulation of the Light. For this reason alone the SHM forbade the entrance of homosexuals or lesbians into the Chambers. It does not circulate the light. We are two persons in the same Being, in Reality and finally we are one Being. To reach that Con-Science is to approach the Light, the Sacred.

In Reality we are Woman and Man - first the Woman and then the Man - The Woman has the privilege of attracting the Self and passing it through her own body to give it form and Real existence. Man has the destiny to open the path of the Sacred to reward Woman for having allowed him to come to know Truth, transformed into Reality. I am already imagining what the Male Initiates think! Well, keep thinking about it, that's the way it is. To see God as Father, without any Mother, is to realize halfway.

I am not speaking as a religious person. That is a part that has to be fulfilled before being an Initiate. To be religious implies a man and a woman, and all the consequences of Reality, of the highest of Reality, that is what the Universal Fraternity is for. I speak of the step from the Human to the Sacred, of the step that a Guru must take. To achieve it, first he has to detach himself from the woman and all the things that a woman is passionate about, and then, liberated to a certain extent, undertake the journey towards himself. Once this has been achieved he can, and must, guide her again, if she has trusted him. If not, he must continue on his way. Who says so? One who has come all the way.

Only then can it become one again for both of us.
